Dave Friedman is an accomplished business litigator who represents publicly traded companies, startups, investors, and directors and officers in high-stakes litigation. He handles a wide variety of complex disputes in courts across the country, including the Delaware Court of Chancery.

Dave has extensive experience in corporate governance and other securities disputes, representing plaintiffs and defendants in breach of fiduciary duty litigation, corporate control fights, post-acquisition disputes, and founder, partnership, and fund disputes. He also represents clients in internal investigations, regulatory investigations, and litigation involving the Department of Justice and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In addition to his securities practice, Dave regularly represents clients in trade secret litigation, professional liability litigation, employment disputes, policyholder disputes, and large breach of contract cases.

Prior to joining Stris & Maher, Dave was a named partner of a San Francisco litigation boutique, Ogloza Fortney + Friedman LLP and was counsel at the San Francisco office of Latham & Watkins LLP, where he practiced for twelve years.

Dave received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics and Political Science from the University of California, Berkeley and his Juris Doctorate from the
