Justin C. Cozad is the Marketing Manager of Stris & Maher, responsible for supporting firm leadership with marketing, communications, and business development efforts that help shape how the firm presents itself to clients, peers, and the broader legal community.

Before joining Stris, Justin was a business development and marketing manager at several Biglaw firms, including ArentFox Schiff, Morrison Foerster, and O'Melveny. He also previously worked for leading luxury fashion houses Louis Vuitton and Prada.

With over a decade of experience working in major business and culture hubs, including Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York, and Paris, Justin brings with him extensive experience in advertising, branding, client and VIP relations, creative and design, events, pitches and proposals, PR, social media and content planning, webinars, and sponsorships, as well as partnering with key leaders and stakeholders to increase an organization's visibility, strengthen its reputation, and drive revenue.

Justin received his B.A. from Dartmouth College, where he was a recipient of and mentor for the Gates Millennium Scholarship Program and participated in study abroad programs in Paris and Rome. He is fluent in French and a member of the Bishop Paiute Tribe.
