Peter is a litigator who represents clients in high-stakes, complex civil disputes. He has experience representing plaintiffs and defendants at every stage of litigation, from pre-suit investigation through trial and appeal.

Peter represents clients of all sizes, from individuals to early-stage startups and large public companies. He has extensive experience in class action litigation, handling matters in the media, insurance, education, and consumer products industries. Peter also has substantial experience representing businesses as plaintiffs, including in antitrust, corporate control, environmental, and fraud disputes. And Peter frequently handles significant appellate matters for his clients, including in the U.S. Supreme Court and Second, Third, Seventh, and Ninth Circuits.

Prior to joining Stris, Peter was an associate in the Los Angeles office of Cooley LLP and the New York office of Holwell Shuster & Goldberg, LLP, where he specialized in commercial, class action, and antitrust litigation.

Peter has served as a law clerk on three courts for two federal judges: Judge Andrew D. Hurwitz of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and Judge Richard J. Sullivan of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

Peter received his J.D. with honors from the University of Chicago Law School,
